PART C – COLLECTION AND USE OF CUSTOMER INFORMATION

In the paragraphs of this Application set out below “Customer” means the customer identified in the Customer Agreement - Business Deposit Account and “the Bank” means RBC Royal Bank (Bahamas) Limited.

Collecting Customer Information

The Bank may from time to time collect financial and other information about the Customer such as:

- Information about the identity of the Customer (for example, name, address, phone number, date of birth, etc.);
- Information related to transactions arising from the Customer's relationship with and through the Bank, and from other financial institutions;
- Information the Customer provides on an application for any of the Bank's products and services;
- Information for the provision of products and services;
- Information about financial behaviour such as the Customer's payment history and credit worthiness.

The collection and processing of this information including retention and disclosure will be in accordance with the provisions of applicable laws and regulations of the country in which the account is held. The Bank may collect this information during the course of its relationship with the Customer. The Bank may obtain this information from a variety of sources, including from the Customer, from service arrangements the Customer makes with or through the Bank, from credit reporting agencies and other financial institutions, and from references the Customer provides to the Bank.

The Customer acknowledges receipt of notice that from time to time reports about the Customer may be obtained by the Bank from credit reporting agencies (where applicable).

Using Customer Information

The processing of this information including disclosure will be in accordance with the provisions of applicable laws and regulations of the country in which the account is held. The Bank may make this information available to its employees, agents and service providers, who are required to maintain the confidentiality of this information. The Bank may share this information with other financial institutions upon their request and with persons with whom the Customer has or may have financial or other business dealings. The Bank may also give this information to credit reporting agencies who may share it with others. With the Customer's specific consent, The Bank may give this information to other persons.

This information may only be used and shared for the following purposes:

- To verify the Customer's identity and conduct background investigations;
- To open and operate the Customer's accounts and provide the Customer with products and services the Customer may request;
- To better understand the Customer's financial situation;
- To determine the Customer's eligibility for products and services the Bank offers;
- To help the Bank better understand the current and future needs of its clients;
- To help the Bank better manage its business and the Customer's relationship with the Bank; and
- To let other companies under RBC Financial Group know the Customer's choices under “Other uses of my personal information”, for the sole purpose of honouring those choices.

Client Information sharing with government agencies (local or foreign) is subject to the laws of the country in which the account is held. Other uses of Customer information

- The Bank may use this information to promote its products and services, and those of select third parties, which may be of interest to the Customer.
- The Bank may also, where not prohibited by law, share this information with other companies under RBC Financial Group for the purpose of referring the Customer to them or promoting to the Customer products and services, which may be of interest to the Customer. The Customer acknowledges that as a result of such sharing, they may advise the Bank of those products or services provided.
- If the Customer also deals with other companies under RBC Financial Group, the Bank may, where not prohibited by law, consolidate this information with information they have about the Customer to allow the Bank and any of them to manage the Customer's relationship with companies under RBC Financial Group and the Bank's business.

The Customer understands that the Bank and each company under RBC Financial Group are separate, affiliated corporations. Other companies under RBC Financial Group include the Bank's affiliates which are engaged in the business of providing any one or more of the following services to the public: deposits, loans and other personal financial services; credit, charge and payment card services; trust and custodial services; securities and brokerage services; and insurance services.

The Customer may choose not to have this information shared or used for any of these other uses by contacting the Bank as set out below. The Bank agrees that if the Customer revokes this authorization in the future the Customer may continue to deal with the Bank and other company under RBC Financial Group. This authorization is in addition to any other agreements the Customer may have, now or in the future, with any companies under RBC Financial Group.

The Customer's Right to Access Customer Information

The Customer may obtain access to the information the Bank holds about the Customer at any time and review its content and accuracy, and have it amended as appropriate. To request access to such information, to ask questions about the Bank's privacy policies or to request that the information not be used for any or all of the purposes outlined in Other uses of Customer information, the Customer may do so now or at any time in the future by making a written request to your branch manager or to:

RBC Royal Bank (Bahamas) Limited, Nassau, Bahamas.

The Customer may obtain more information about the Bank's corporate privacy policies by asking for a copy of the Bank's Straight Talk® brochure about privacy or by visiting the bank's web site at www.rbc.com/privacy. Details of applicable laws within the specific country where the account is held are available locally.
