Any such item will be considered an Instrument whether or not the Customer is a party to it and no matter what currency it is in.

8. Waiver of Presentation, etc.

The Customer waives presentment for payment, notice of dishonour, protest, and notice of protest of any Instrument. The Customer will be liable to the Bank on any Instrument as if it had been duly presented for payment and protested and notice of dishonour and protest given to all parties to it as provided by law.

9. Clearing and Settlement

The Bank may present and deliver Instruments for payment, clearing, collection, acceptance or otherwise through any bank or other party and in any manner as it deems appropriate. The Bank may also accept and deliver any form of settlement or payment for any Instrument as it deems appropriate.

The Bank may take any steps or proceedings with respect to any Instrument deposited or discounted with the Bank as it deems appropriate, either in its own name or in the name of the Customer. - (c) The Customer acknowledges that copies of images and instruments (including digital or electronic representations) may be provided to the Customer before the Bank has determined whether the Instrument will be honoured or accepted. The Customer agrees that such copies of images or Instruments are made available by the Bank as a service to the Customer and that the provision of copies of images of Instruments does not mean that a transaction has been processed or in any way obliges the Bank to honour or accept the instrument. The Bank will not be required to ensure that copies of images can be made available to the Customer or any other party upon request for longer than seven years following the date of the statement of account on which the Instrument appears; or as stipulated by local laws.
