

What could you do with 51 more days* before you need to pay your suppliers?

An RBC® credit card program can improve your working capital so you can invest more in your business.

Control

Operate your way

- Set individual limits on cards
- Block purchases from certain merchant types
- Use the receipt app to capture photos of paper receipts, enabling you to easily keep track of your business expenses in real-time

Insights

Information to make vital business decisions

- Analyze spending patterns to enhance forecasting
- Streamline expense tracking and customize reporting
- Integrate data with expense management systems

Rewards

Team up with the program that works best

- Earn cash back or rewards for travel and merchandise
- Corporate or individual point ownership options
- Travel with a suite of comprehensive insurance coverages† including Mobile Device Protection^

Companies in your industry use their RBC credit card program for purchases such as: Marketing and Advertising • Medical Technology Medical Supplies • Travel Expenses

Talk to your Commercial Account Manager about payment solutions that can give your cash management a healthy diagnosis.

* 51 more days refers to the maximum number of interest-free days before you must pay your RBC credit card after a purchase is made (based on a card with a 21 day grace period). To achieve this you must use your credit card to pay your supplier and ensure the payment is posted immediately after your statement closes. For more information about interest-free days and the timing of payments, speak with your Commercial Account Manager.

† All insurance is subject to limitations and exclusions. Please refer to the insurance certificates at rbc.com/comcardsinfo for complete details.

^ Coverage underwritten by Aviva General Insurance Company in the Province of Quebec and by RBC Insurance Company of Canada in the rest of Canada.

© / ™ Trademark(s) of Royal Bank of Canada. VPS104323